

The News Tribune

Tacoma, Washington

The News Tribune building addition and renovation presented a significant challenge. The task was completed while the newspaper continued to put out the daily newspaper for over 200,000 subscribers with a work force of approximately 800. Merritt led the design effort in concert with newspaper technical specialist, Blevins-Harding. The program included all departments in a work-around plan with multiple phases. The addition, with the “company street” as the organizing element, represents 50,000 square feet. The remodeling included approximately 80,000 square feet.